

SFGate.com
SFGate.com

Print This Article

Back to Article

advertisement | your ad here

What you can rent in the Bay Area for $2,000 a month

Sunday, May 23, 2010

Oakland, $1,995

466 Crescent St., Unit 126

Beds: 3 Baths: 2

This remodeled unit has new finishes, including a kitchen with stainless-steel appliances, granite countertops and a tiled floor. It's connected to a dining area. There's also new paint and carpet, dual-paned windows, an office and a private patio. It comes with garage parking for one car. The building, which has its own swimming pool, is blocks from the Grand Lake shopping district and a block from access to Interstate 580.

Leasing agent: Brad Watson, Caldecott Properties, Oakland, (510) 594-2400, bwatson@caldecott.com

SoMa, $1,749

1188 Mission St.

Beds: 1 Baths: 1

Unfurnished one-bedroom, one-bath apartments in the new 440-unit Trinity Place high-rise development start at $1,749 per month. The sunny units feature walk-in closets, tall ceilings and modern kitchens with granite countertops and ceramic tile flooring. Six-month leases are available in the building, which also has a fitness center, resident lounge and a laundry center on each floor. Trinity Place is a block from the Civic Center BART stop and the Metro Civic Center Station Muni rail stop.

Leasing agent: Nicholas Allen, Trinity Management Services, North Beach, (415) 433-3333, 333la6@trinitymanagement.com

The Chronicle and Sf.BlockShopper.com scour For Rent listings across the Bay Area, putting real places with prices to show renters what they can get for their money. This week, our working budget is $2,000 per month.

<http://sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?f=/c/a/2010/05/23/RERE1DDL05.DTL>

This article appeared on page J - 4 of the San Francisco Chronicle

© 2010 Hearst Communications Inc. | Privacy Policy | Feedback | RSS Feeds | FAQ | Site Index | Contact

